SYNOPSIS

- Alice is learning a new lesson by the family tree when she stumbles down the rabbit's newest hole. As she wakes up, she finds herself stuck in Wonderland yet again. The only difference? She's locked in the dungeon of the Queen of Heart's castle without a key. Her new mission is to beat the clock to escape from her cell and run back home before the Queen of Hearts awakens from her slumber. If the Alice wakes the Queen, a timer will be set, and she'll have only 30 seconds to find a way out of the castle.
- Theme: The message the game is communicating to players is to never trust strangers and the art of solving puzzles or escape rooms.
- Mood: The emotional tone is tension and frustration. We chose these to convey our game because of how complex escape room puzzles can be. Players will find this suspense-filled game

GAMEPLAY LOOP

CORE MECHANICS AND SYSTEMS

- Characters: Alice, the Queen of Hearts, and the Deck of Card Soldiers
- Skill/Chance: Alice can shrink using the “Drink me” potion or grow using the “Eat me” treats. If woken up, the Queen of Hearts will scream “Off with her head!” and signal the Card soldiers to get Alice. The Card Soldiers can catch Alice if they see/hear her.
- Objects: “Drink Me” potion, “Eat Me” treats, a Key, a Notebook, a plate of Tarts, Mad Hatter’s Hat, Rabbit’s Watch, a Map of the Castle, & a Riddle
- Core Actions: Alice is locked in the dungeon, must use the tools within her cell to unlock the door. Once the door is unlocked, if she is small, the soldiers guarding the dungeon will not notice. However, if she is regular sized or larger, they will send her back and close the door. She must next follow the riddle left to her by the Mad Hatter to find the next five clues within the castle walls.
- Core Systems: Walking, running, jumping, drinking/eating
